Reviews

This book is definitely not effortless to start on looking at but really exciting to see. It really is simplistic but surprises from the 50 % from the pdf. I am just effortlessly can get a delight of looking at a published book.

BLACK AFRICAN CINEMA

University of California Press. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 384 pages. From the proselytizing lantern slides of early Christian missionaries to contemporary films that look at Africa through an African lens, N. Frank Ukadike explores the development of black African cinema. He examines the impact of culture and history, and of technology and co-production, on filmmaking throughout Africa. Every aspect of African contact with and contribution to cinematic practices receives attention: British colonial cinema; the thematic and stylistic diversity of the pioneering francophone films; the effects of television on the motion picture industry; and patterns of television documentary filmmaking in anglophone regions. Ukadike gives special attention to the growth of independent production in Ghana and Nigeria, the unique Yoruba theater-film tradition, and the militant liberationist tendencies of lusophone filmmakers. He offers a lucid discussion of oral tradition as a creative matrix and the relationship between cinema and other forms of popular culture. And, by contrasting new African films with those based on the traditional paradigm, he explores the trends emerging from the eighties and nineties. Clearly written and accessible to specialist and general reader alike, Black African Cinemas analysis of key films and issues--the most comprehensive in English--is unique. The books pan-Africanist vision heralds important new strategies for appraising a cinema that increasingly attracts the attention of film students and Africanists. This item ships from La Vergne,TN. Paperback.
